Graystar Trailers in demand

THIS year has been an extremely busy time for Graystar Trailers and the new financial year is showing no signs of slowing down.

David Gray and the crew at Graystar Trailers are very enthusiastic about new developments in the refrigerated transport industry.

Continuing advances in research and design are allowing the newest Graystar Trailers to be lighter, stronger and more thermally efficient than previous models.

Shrewd operators who are trying to gain the edge on their competitors are seeing the benefits of these improvements and are continuing to place orders for the newest trailers.

They are the ones who are always chasing that little bit extra to make their business more successful and profitable.

Not everyone is after the cheapest mass produced product and the more discerning operators see that by spending a little more in the first place saves them considerably more down the track.

Word of mouth has become the most effective sales tool over the last few years with many operators recommending Graystar Trailers to their acquaintances.

The demand from new clients is quite exciting and has led to many new relationships.

One of these being Anthony Brown from Browns Slipway in QLD who has just purchased two new 24 pallet trailers.

Both of these new trailers are full freezer specifications with fully welded aluminium distribution floors fitted.

Drains have been incorporated into the rear of the floors and waste is collected in stainless steel storage tanks.

Thermo king fridges look after temperature control. Polished aluminium extrusions, stainless steel rear door hardware and custom graphics make these units stand out from the crowd.

Working closely with their clients to meet their needs leads Graystar to being able to source some of the best materials from around the world and it is these advances that make the Graystar Trailer superior.

Improvements in chassis design have helped improve tyre wear, brake performance and reduce fuel costs.

Lighter tare weight allows for more payload, greater thermal efficiency reduces running costs and maintenance on the fridge unit.

These features prove why buying a premium product in the first place will show cost savings down the track.

Graystar Trailers are being included in the fleets of more and more refrigerated transport operators all the time.
